Dear Editor, Journal of Make-believe

1: Overview (Title and key findings)

We are pleased to submit a manuscript “A study of health benefits of imaginary food on the lost boys” for your consideration. In this manuscript we present a study on the lost boys nutritional gain from the cultural practice of imaginary food. We found that the boys displayed exemplary health and displayed life-style benefits of flying and never aging directly attributed to never-before seen types of protein gained from imaginary food.
